

our story

Helpless does not begin to describe how I felt as my brother Angelo battled a rare orphan tumor called a Desmoid Tumor. The Lap4Life Foundation was started as a way for me to feel less helpless and to do something to help my brother, Dr. Angelo Casabianca, who was a local doctor and father of three. After a nine year battle, he had radical surgery removing the tumor and his small intestine, which later led to a transplant of the small intestine. Devastatingly, Angelo passed away on November 13, 2009; just five months after the first Lap4Life event. The Lap4Life foundation is a non-profit organization that raises money for research to battle Desmoid Tumors and for research to help make organ transplants safer and more successful.
